

improving our ministries

. . . because YOU support Shared Ministry Apportionments

Thanks to your support, the New York Annual Conference is able to join the denomination in focusing on four key areas for ministry:

- Combating the diseases of poverty by improving health globally
- Engaging in ministry with the poor
- Creating new places for new people and revitalizing existing congregations
- Developing principled Christian leaders for the church and the world

These four mandates are raising the bar for the future ministries of the church, both locally and globally.

Congregations are encouraged to see their outreach ministries not just as charity, but also as opportunities to radically change the conditions that undermine the quality of life in their communities. That might mean working to stem the devastation of poverty or rallying for healthcare and immigration reform. Paul Nixon, who wrote “I Refuse to Lead A Dying Church,” will continue working with the conference to develop new and different ways of reaching out to those who are unchurched.

Thanks to your support, the church can be a body of transformed individuals committed to challenging and changing the unjust practices of the society in which they live.

Together We Make a Difference Through
Shared Ministry Apportionments!

Local and national rallies target immigration issues.

improving our ministries

. . . because YOU support Shared Ministry Apportionments

Thanks to your support, the New York Annual Conference is able to join the denomination in focusing on four key areas for ministry:

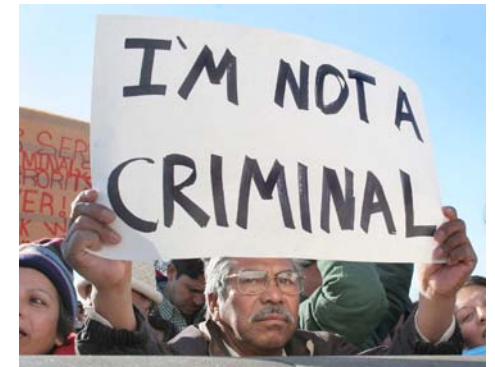

- Combating the diseases of poverty by improving health globally
- Engaging in ministry with the poor
- Creating new places for new people and revitalizing existing congregations
- Developing principled Christian leaders for the church and the world

These four mandates are raising the bar for the future ministries of the church, both locally and globally.

Congregations are encouraged to see their outreach ministries not just as charity, but also as opportunities to radically change the conditions that undermine the quality of life in their communities. That might mean working to stem the devastation of poverty or rallying for healthcare and immigration reform. Paul Nixon, who wrote “I Refuse to Lead A Dying Church,” will continue working with the conference to develop new and different ways of reaching out to those who are unchurched.

Thanks to your support, the church can be a body of transformed individuals committed to challenging and changing the unjust practices of the society in which they live.

Together We Make a Difference Through
Shared Ministry Apportionments!

Local and national rallies target immigration issues.